The 'All Wales Award'*

Preferred supplier for education staff for schools and colleges

Background

A Welsh Government report on efficiency and innovation recommended that the public sector in Wales needs to identify common and repetitive spending.

The All Wales tender for education recruitment was issued and agencies across the UK were invited to bid for the contract.

New Directions have been successful in winning this bid in both 2012 and 2015.

*All Wales Framework agreement for the National Procurement Service for the provision of agency staff

New Directions have been a recruitment and training partner to the education community across Wales since 1999. In 2012 and 2015, our business won the All Wales Award, which meant that we became the preferred supplier of staff to your sector. Since that time, we have reduced recruitment costs for schools and colleges across Wales by just over £3m.

Additionally, we have worked directly with you to develop further support for your teams via our in house training team. From Team Teach to our online Safeguarding courses – we have listened to your needs and reflect this with our support to you.

We recognise the hard work of all the stakeholders within the Welsh education sector, and we celebrate this with our annual Inspirational Teaching Awards. We want to help you to recognise and reward the innovators, the inspirers and those that make our children's future brighter.

We hope that you will continue to work with us, side-by-side to make an even stronger tomorrow for Wales”.

Gary Williams, Business Development Director

New Directions named 'Supplier of the Year' at the Welsh National Procurement Awards 2015

“ New Directions has been our supply agency of choice for the past three years. In this time they have provided teachers, teaching assistants and examination invigilators, both for short and extended periods of time. The quality of the supply staff provided is always good and, more often than not, excellent. They are able to provide both bi-lingual and subject specific staff if required.

The administration team at ND are very aware of our requirements and preferences and do all they can to match our needs. They are, without exception, helpful and friendly and I would highly recommend New Directions to any school looking for supply cover.”

Chris Venville, Admin Officer, Ysgol Gyfun Aberaeron

Why New Directions Education?

New Directions Education Limited is one of the largest education recruitment and training specialists in the UK. We are a supply teaching agency with offices based throughout Wales and England. With offices in 10 locations across England and Wales, our team has been embedded with the education community since 1999.

We are a preferred or contracted supplier to over 20 local authorities across the UK, and in 2012 our business was named as a 'Hot 100 Recruiter' by the Recruitment and Employment Confederation publication 'Recruiter'.
